Dear Customers,

Mar. 19, 2020

During this constantly shifting COVID-19 situation, we wanted to reach out and let you know what Breckenridge Public Utilities (BPU) is doing during this time to keep operations as normal as possible. We know this is a difficult time, and we are committed to continuing to provide power and drinking water and to maintain wastewater facilities during this time of uncertainty.

While this situation is continually evolving, BPU wants you to know that you have our commitment to continue to provide you with services. We do not anticipate any disruption to your services. The BPU office will be following the recommendations of state government. As of now, the following changes are outlined below:

- While offices at City Hall may be closed to the public, the employees of BPU will continue to provide safe and reliable Utilities. Online payments, drop box on the west side of City Hall, along with US Postal service mail are still available to all customers. BPU would also like you to consider automatic drafting from your bank account. If you have any questions or need to make arrangements regarding your utility bill, please contact city hall at 218-643-4681.
- BPU employees will be following the recommendations of state government including social distancing and personal protective equipment when interacting with each other and customers. For more information on how to best protect yourself and others, please visit the CDC guidelines.

If anything changes, BPU will continue to send updates. We are all in touch with our fellow public utility systems to exchange best practices for continued safe and reliable operations.

Should you have any questions, please reach out to us at lgefro@breckenridgemn.net or lchristensen@breckenridgemn.net.

Be well,
Neil Crocker
Director of Public Services
